Dwar Lee,

Early this morning I finished what reading I'll do save for writing in Posner's book. My instinctive belief, that his most important computer business would be a crude fraud was correct and I'll continue to save that for last. But before I left home, thinking about it, I wondered if the client could have been the ABA. The possibility requires some changes in one place and an addition in another. Two insertions are enclosed. If you have any trouble locating where to do it, please let me know.

I'm glad you spoke to Lil yesterday. Thanks!

She has an appointment to see Hickey at 11, when I'll mail this.

Our best,

Harold
